THE CITY WALLS

1547

Town Walls built in Stirling when English raids threatened the infant Mary Queen of Scots.

1830-1980s

Graham & Morton founded in Stirling. The company initially began life as an ironmongers with shop front premises on 47-51 King Street. By 1908 the company had built the large warehouse to the rear, which forms the building you are now in.

1954

Permission granted to make an archway through the historic walls, which you now see as the entrance to The City Walls pub.

1980s

The business closes down and building abandoned.

1986/7

Permission granted for change of use from warehouse to public house and opens the following year as The Courtyard pub.

1998

Building purchased by Belhaven Pubs and refurbished as The Yard.

December 2007 Major redevelopment by Belhaven Pubs to The City Walls.
